FLYER JUMPS TRACK

Disastrous Wreck on the Illinois Central Last Evening.

Fast Passenger Derailed and Two Killed, while Ten Were Injured.

SPREADING RAILS THE CAUSE

The Memphis and Louisville passenger train No. 103, due here at 11:30 a. m., but which passed here at 2:34 o'clock yesterday afternoon because it was late, was wrecked at McHenry, Ky., a station on the Louisville division of the road eighteen miles north of Central City, and Engineer John F. Matthis and Fireman John Kerr, both of Louisville, were killed and ten passengers and train hands were injured.

The killed: John F. Matthis, engineer, Louisville.

John Kerr, fireman, Louisville.

The injured: G. T. Stocker, baggage-master, Louisville; fractured nose, lip and puncture wound on left side of forehead.

O. F. Roswell, flagman, of Louisville; wound on left side of forehead, left hand skinned, abrasion twelve inches long on spine.

W. Crocker, passenger, of New Orleans; slight abrasion on right leg three inches below the knee.

W. S. Wilson, passenger, manager of the Fruit Dispatch Co.; back hurt.

Mrs. O. R. Lapeley, passenger, of 161 West Forty-ninth street, New York City; abrasions on shoulder, back and left leg.

Mrs. H. F. Keller, passenger, of Brownwell, W. Va.; very nervous and complained of her neck being bruised, but no external evidence.

Arthur Foy, passenger, of Louisville; wound in middle of eyebrow, slight abrasion on right cheek.

J. P. Franklin, Pullman conductor; abrasion on right leg below knee.

B. H. Summers of 805 West Broadway, Louisville, passenger; abrasion on cheek and right hand and sprained back.

David Vaughn, passenger, of McHenry, Ky.; injury to right wrist, puncture in forehead and nose skinned.

There were many reports relative to those injured and one was to the effect that Superintendent A. Philbrick and Traveling Engineer Lloyd Grimes were riding in the cab of the engine and were injured. This report was untrue, as Engineer Grimes had gotten off at Princeton and Superintendent Philbrick was not in the cab.

The above is the official list of those injured and furnished to the local hospital physicians.

The train was running fast to make up time and at McHenry the trucks of the engine broke and fell to the ground, wrecking the engine; one mail car, one baggage car and one second class coach. The engine was derailed and the baggage car "rode" the engine, piling up on it and making a bad wreck to work. The second class coach did not leave the tracks for, being only slightly derailed. Matthis and Kerr were caught in the wreckage, unable to get out or jump when the crash came, and were instantly killed.

Matthis was well known on all roads and considered one of the best engineers in the service. He was formerly traveling engineer of this division, but took a run in preference. His fireman was promoted to the position of engineer, but was several months ago "set back" for six months and had been firing on this run. Both are well known here and the news of their untimely death will be received with regret. The local wrecker was ordered out immediately after the report of the accident reached here and hospital surgeons sent up to administer to the injured.

All trains were delayed this morning, the Louisville and Memphis passenger train No. 103, due at 4 a. m., arriving at 7:10. The wreckage was cleared as soon as possible and the trains brought through. The engine is badly wrecked, as also is the baggage car. The mail car and second

Local Union Men Have Returned—Cnpt. Finney Refused.

Messrs. Charles Hayman and Chas. McCarty, of the local ship carpenters' union, returned last night from Mound City, where they had gone to investigate the advisability of a strike, and reported this morning that "everything seemed favorable," meaning that they thought a strike would go into effect today or Monday.

Mr. Hayman will meet with the members of the union tomorrow at the meeting hall and will make an official report. He says there are about twelve union men employed on the Mound City plant and that the total force will number no more than thirty-five. The trouble in instituting a strike lies in the fact that there is more non-union than union labor and the men fear that a strike would not be successful. A meeting was held with the union ship carpenters, who all favor making the demands made here.

Demands have been made here on Capt. Dan Finney, who has his boat, the Penguin, on his barge dock. Captain Finney stated this morning that he had been employing union labor, but that the men made the same demands made at the docks and ways, and he refused and secured a set of non-union men, who are at work on the boat today. If the weather holds out he will finish within two weeks, he thinks. A new hull is being built under the boat.

WILL CLEAR $5000

This is the Estimate of a Member of Carnival Committee.

The Festival Has Been a Great Financial Success, Despite the Rain.

A LIVELY NIGHT PROMISED

This is the last day of Paducah's third annual carnival, and everybody seems to have enjoyed it. Broadway has been the midway this time, and it has been thronged with people day and night. Last night Broadway was still a lively thoroughfare after midnight.

The financial success of the carnival is something in which thousands of people in Paducah are interested. It was stated today by one of the executive committees that he believed that with as good a crowd tonight as last night and the one preceding, he was willing to lay a wager that the association would clear $5,000.

The free street fair this year was an experiment, but it has demonstrated conclusively that Paducah is one of the best carnival towns in the country. There is no other place known to carnival people, according to experienced showmen, where the people turn out as they do here.

The patronage of the various attractions has been good. It has been greater, it is said, with the exception of the two nights it rained, than on the same nights of previous carnivals. The executive committee sought to give

The Week In Society.

TO DAME CARE.

Dame Care, I pray you, stand aside
As kind companion should,
That I may view the wider world
And have the life I would.
When Dawn, with blithe, bewitching face,
Entices toil to leave,
How prompt are you my side to seek!
How closely there you cleave!
Dame Care, I pray your clatter cease
So close in harassed ear,
That I that far, transporting note
Of minstrel may hear.
Yet Care, were you commissioned not
My courage to abide,
Perchance, one mournful would stalk
Persistent at my side.
I would not with Dejection plod,
Nor journey with disgrace;
I would not choose with doleful Grief
To keep a sombre pace.
So, Care, though you're an irksome
guest,
I might a sadder know,
Then let us, since together paired,
Make merry as we go.
—Clara Bellinger in Town and Country.

A STRENUOUS WEEK.

There is no doubt that as a people we are prone to take our pleasures atrenously. To an onlooker the carnival crowds have presented an interesting study. There was a ceaseless passing to and fro, and while holiday was in the air, there was a curious intentness that seemed to make a business of the pleasure. Perhaps, the rain helped to emphasize this, for no one can have an exactly joyous air under an umbrella and looking generally be-dragged—possibly, this may be the reason so many elect not to attend clinch in the rain, and, yet, will go elsewhere.

Society has not been quite so merged in the carnival this week as was anticipated, but has managed to have a good time all around, for though the evenings have been mainly devoted to sight-seeing, and carnival parties have been a fail of the week, there has yet, been a good deal of entertaining done.
These have been largely informal afternoon affairs but none the less pleasant occasions, and were graceful compliments to numerous visitors in the city.
The carnival ball celebrated one evening very merrily, and a private dance at the Palmer was an impromptu pleasure.

CARNIVAL BALL.

The carnival ball on Thursday evening at The Palmer was a very delightful and largely attended affair. A number of out-of-town visitors helped make the occasion especially pleasant, sented. Among those present were:

"There is a certain happiness to be found in the most disagreeable duty when you stop to realize that you are getting it out of the way."

THE WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Sunday. Probably showers Sunday night in the extreme west portion.

WHAT THE PEOPLE EXPECT.

The Louisville Post, under the caption "Machine Men and Anti-Machine Men," says:

"We find in the Paducah Sun (Republican) the following statement: 'The anti-machine men were cleaned out Saturday. The machine men will be cleaned out in November.'"

"Not by the machine men within the Republican party. Let me disabuse our minds of the impression that the people of Kentucky at this time are in a mood to put up with machine politics of one party in preference to the machine politics of the other. It is not so. The people of Kentucky are tired of machine politics. They are tired of the office-holding trust. They are tired of bitterness and intolerance. They are tired of the calamity howlers. They are tired of men who stuff ballot boxes and falsify election returns. They are tired of men who seek to enact laws, the purpose of which is to conceal crimes against popular suffrage.

"But let us remember that the Republican party has got to bring an indictment against the Democrats in power; they have got to make a motion before the people to displace them. Before the motion can be carried the Republicans must show what the effect will be. They must show moreover, their superiority as administrators of the law. They must prove within the Republican party that machine politics has been overthrown and popular sovereignty established, and they must convince the people that a Republican victory means a forward movement for all the interests directly affecting the prosperity and happiness of the people. The Republicans must not only get away from some of their past unfortunate experiences, but they must prove to the people beyond all question that they have withdrawn within their own party the influences that are driving the Democratic party to destruction."

It is not our desire to question the Post as a political authority, or to disparage its source of information on the subject discussed above, but it is not conclusive at this writing what the people of Kentucky are going to put up with, they have already put up with so much, and even if it were admitted that there are machine politics in the Republican party of the kind and quality of the Democratic party, which is not admitted, there would yet be a chance that the voters of the commonwealth would ask for a change. They know there is nothing to hope for from the Democratic grafters, and they have never given the Republicans a fair chance.

We do not agree that the Republicans have to "bring an indictment against the Democrats in power." That has already been done by the Democrats themselves. The true calibre of the Democrats who have control of the party and the state is too well known to necessitate the formality of an "indictment" or the needless ceremony of a "motion for the people and disadvantage of keeping the Democrats in power, there is no use in longer trying to protect them and their interests. They are hopelessly lost, and nothing, however bad, would be worse than they deserve.

The Post again errs in saying that the Republicans must "first show what the effect will be," the effect, presumably, of electing the Republicans to office. The Republicans must show nothing of the kind, for there is no way it can be done. It is something that has to be tried to be proven. The Republicans cannot show that they are superior administrators of state affairs without being given a chance, nor can they show that the election of the Republican ticket "means a forward movement for all the interests directly affecting the prosperity and happiness of the people." They can only promise that it will. A demonstration of it can only come after they assume the reins of office. Hence the people of Kentucky will not be so foolish as to expect the Republicans to do more now. A trial will convince. Until then the Republicans can only promise, but the people can be sure of one thing—the Republican party at the worst could not impose greater indignities or calamities on the state of Kentucky than have the Democrats.

CALLED TO THE SLAUGHTER.

A fulsome cull has been made through the papers on Mayor D. A. Yeiser to announce for the Democratic majority nomination. This is doubtless preliminary to the mayor's announcement as a candidate. It appears from the call, which probably had the sanction of the mayor as is customary in such cases, before it was published, that one of the principal reasons his friends think he ought to be re-elected is that "the term of office for which you were elected in 1901 was reduced by two years in the transfer of our city from the third to second class, and hence we believe it but just, fair and equitable that you be permitted to retain the office for at least the full term to which the people elected you."

To express it more plainly, this enthusiastic friend of the mayor thinks that because the court of appeals took off two years of the mayor's term, the people ought now to give him four additional years to compensate him for the outrage. The people, however, have probably not forgotten that only one other man ever served a two year term as mayor of Paducah, and that was the late Captain Joe Johnson. He was anxious to be re-elected, and was a good, capable man, yet Dr. Yeiser ran against him and defeated him without compunction. He did not seem to be of the opinion then that a man should be given another term because two years of his term was taken off by law. He simply hustled around and took the office from Captain Johnson, despite the fact that Captain Johnson had lost two years of his term. Yet one of his friends now claims that Dr. Yeiser, who has served longer than any other man as mayor, ought to be given four years for the two he loses by the transfer of class, although it was not deemed advisable to give a former mayor who had served only two years in office, another term. As to Mayor Yeiser's record as chief executive his administrations have excelled in several things. In the first place, he has served longer than any other man, and will round out nine years as mayor when he completes this year. During his administration the city has had the three largest tax rates in her history, $1.60, $1.65 and $1.65; he has drawn the highest salary ever paid a municipal officer; more money has been wasted, more trouble encountered in official circles, and more unmitigated gall has been displayed, than during any similar period of the city's history. To crown it all, some friend now asks that the people give Mayor Yeiser four years for the two that his term has been shortened. Mayor Yeiser is an affable, courtly gentleman, but he should not allow his political friends to deceive him. There is going to be a warm fight in municipal circles this year, and the mayor should not overestimate his strength and enter a contest that does not look very promising for him. There are a whole lot of knives newly whetted to take his scalp.

ONLY MARRIED MEN COUNT.

Woman Didn't Consider Bachelors Worthy of Notice.

The Directory man was in a reminiscent mood the other evening, and for the benefit of amused listeners recalled several pretty good stories of his experiences in getting the names of people, says the Boston Journal. One story he told as follows: "This story happened during my experience here in Boston," he started off, "and I thought I had made due allowance for this city's reputation for exclusive interpretation of conditions and events. One morning, on the regular routine, I rang the bell of a house in South Boston. A kindly faced elderly lady of undoubted Irish nativity answered. My formal question as to whether there were any gentlemen living in the house was answered in the affirmative. "How many?" I asked. "Was, sor." "And his name, please?" "Patrick Doolin, sor." "Where did he live last year?" "Nowhere, sor; nowhere." "Puzzled by the answer, I repeated the question, but the same response was given. "How can that be, madam?" I exclaimed, "he must have lived somewhere." "Sure, an' he did not, thin," she answered with conviction; "he was married till three weeks ago." "I did not disturb her impression that a man was to be counted as living only when he married, but went my way wondering how much smaller the directory would be if left to her to edit."

HOW A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN ESCAPED SPRING CATARRH BY USE OF PE-RU-NA.

Nothing Robs One of Strength Like Spring Catarrh-- Spring Fever is Spring Catarrh.

MISS HELEN WHITMAN.

Miss Helen Whitman, 308 1/2 Grand avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"There is nothing like Peruna for that tired feeling, which gives you no ambition for work or play. After a prolonged illness, about a year ago I felt unable to regain my health, but four bottles of Peruna made a wonderful change and restored me to perfect health. As long as you keep your blood in good condition you are all right, and Peruna seems to fill the veins with pure, healthful blood. I thoroughly endorse it."

Have you got nerves? Well, you ought to have nerves. But they ought to be strong nerves, good nerves. Does your hand tremble? Are you living too fast? Does your heart flutter at times? You had better call a halt. Americans live too fast. They crowd too much into a single day. They have too little leisure. The hospitals and insane asylums are filling up. The quiet, pastoral scenes of yore are becoming rare. It's time that we quit this sort of business.

How to Get Strong Nerves. First, repair the injury already done to your nerves. The way to do this is to do exactly as did Mattie B. Curtis, Secretary of Legion of Loyal Women, Hotel Salem, Boston, Mass. She said in a recent letter: "I suffered for over a year with general weakness and debility manifested in severe headache and backache. I took four bottles of Peruna, and for two months have been entirely free from these maladies."

Nervous Prostration. Thousands of cases might be quoted in which Peruna has been used to rescue people from the perdition of deranged nerves, and put them on the good, solid foundation of health. The County Auditor of Erie county, New York, Hon. John W. Neff, in a recent letter written at Buffalo, New York, stated: "I was persuaded by a friend to try a bottle of your great nerve tonic, Peruna, and the results were so gratifying that I am more than pleased to recommend it."

A Spring Tonic.

"Almost every body needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain and cleanse the blood. That Peruna will do this is beyond all question. Everyone who has tried it has had the same experience as Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, of Lynchburg, Va., who, in a recent letter, made use of the following words: "I always take a dose of Peruna after business hours, as it is a great thing for the nerves. There is no better spring tonic, and I have used about all of them."

Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the best time to treat catarrh. Nature renews herself every spring. The system is rejuvenated by spring weather. This renders medicine more effective. A short course of Peruna, assisted by the balmy air of spring, will cure old, stubborn cases of catarrh that have resisted treatment for years. Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh. Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Lulu Larmer, Stoughton, Wis., says:

"For two years I suffered with nervous troubles and stomach disorders until it seemed that there was nothing to me but a bundle of nerves. I was very irritable, could not sleep, rest for compose myself, and was certainly unfit to take care of a household. I took nerve tonics and pills without benefit. When I began taking Peruna I grew steadily better, my nerves grew stronger, my rest was no longer fitful, and to-day I consider myself in perfect health and strength. My recovery was slow but sure, but I persevered and was rewarded by perfect health."—Mrs. Lulu Larmer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

WILL BUILD CHURCH IN BREATHITT CAPITAL.

(Lexington Herald.)

Mr. Robert M. Hopkins, evangelist for the church extension department of the Christian church, went to Jackson yesterday morning and secured a lot for the erection of a new church. The lot was donated by Mr. Floyd Day, one of the members of the general merchandise firm of Day Bros. It is on College street, just opposite the county jail, and in the shadow of the court house from which James B. Maroon and James Cockrell were assassinated and near where Dr. Cox was assassinated.

Mr. Hopkins has visited Jackson a number of times and has succeeded in getting together a small congregation. Several people on each side of the Hargis-Cockrell feud are members of the congregation. It is the intention to erect a substantial building to cost about $3,000, of which $1,200 has already been secured.

Treasury Department, Office of the Supervising Architect, Washington, D. C., May 6, 1903.

Sealed proposals will be received at this office until 3 o'clock p. m. on the 9th day of June, 1903, and then opened, for furnishing the steam heating and ventilating apparatus complete in place for the U. S. postoffice and court house, etc., at Paducah, Kentucky, in accordance with drawings and specifications, copies of which may be had at this office or at the office of the superintendent at Paducah, Ky., at the discretion of the supervising architect, James Knox Taylor, supervising architect.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Because of the inclement weather during a part of carnival week and desire of the managers of the Carnival company not to introduce anything to detract the public attention from the many shows that are trying to make up for lost time, and because of the special drawings at the Country Store the committee has deemed it wise to postpone the drawing for the automobile until Saturday night, May 23, at an hour and place to be determined later. Very respectfully, JAMES M. LANG, Chairman.

WHITE BREAD

ANOTHER PROOF IN THE CONTROVERSY.

Under certain conditions white bread, potatoes and all starchy food fails to digest and bowel troubles and appendicitis are likely to follow unless the food is changed.

After consulting five physicians, the last three of whom declared that an operation for appendicitis was the only way to save her life, a young lady of Bloomington, Ind., recovered her health entirely with no other aid than Grape-Nuts, the scientific predigested cereal food.

She says: "Three years ago I had an attack of what my family physician pronounced congestion of the bowels and stomach."

"He treated me for some time, but I continued to grow weaker, constantly subject to the same attacks. I was compelled to give up my studies at college. In the meantime I consulted another physician. Finally I went to a specialist, who pronounced it catarrh of the stomach and acute appendicitis. I was under his care for about three weeks, when I had another attack and my parents called other physicians, who claimed that nothing but the removal of the appendix would save my life."

"My parents refused to permit this and I was left a total wreck, weak, nervous, unable to eat. It was then that they tried Grape-Nuts, feeding me a teaspoonful three times a day. Upon this food alone I improved from the start, to the great wonder of my family. For two months I ate nothing but Grape-Nuts and drank beef tea. Since that time, which was more than a year ago, I have not had the slightest illness, and I am now strong and able to study again. I know that I owe my restored health to Grape-Nuts, and I now eat it constantly."

Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

In this case, as in most cases of appendicitis, the trouble started with inflammation of the bowels resulting from the use of pasty, starchy foods that were undigested in the stomach and went into the intestines in an undigested condition, fermenting there and starting disease. Too much white bread will do this. Relief and final cure came when the improper food was left off and Grape-Nuts, in which the starches have been transformed into grape sugar by a predigesting process, was used. Although all of the rebuilding elements are there in Grape-Nuts the food is so pure that the most delicate stomach relishes and

AS TO GROWING OLD.

(Boston Herald.)

A foreign writer undertakes to answer the question as to whether it is sad to grow old, and treats the subject most felicitously. He says the art of growing old is a difficult one, but he asks if the understanding how to be young is not difficult also, a question that will readily find an affirmative answer. It is the same with the possession of wealth. Do the rich know how to be rich? Even as to health, the secret of gracefully bearing health is as difficult to acquire as that of carrying off gracefully illness. Yet nothing can be finer than a placid and amiable old age. This writer remarks that "one of the most beautiful things in the world is an old person who, made better by experience, more indulgent, more charitable, loves mankind in spite of its wretchedness and adores youth without the slightest tendency to mimic it. Such a person is like an old Stradivarius whose tone has become so sweet that its value is increased a hundredfold, and it seems almost to have a soul." This "adoring youth without the slightest tendency to mimic it" is a fine touch indeed.

THE THREE PROBLEMS AT PANAMA.

There are three leading problems in the building of the Panama canal. The first is this great cutting through the Onlebra hills. The second problem will be the regulation of the Chagres river, which crosses the canal eleven times. It is a torrential stream, liable to overflow its banks at any time of the year. To obviate this difficulty a gigantic reservoir will be built near the Onlebra ent to hold the overflow of the Chagres and its many tributaries. This dam will be twenty miles long and 200 feet deep; and the foundations of its mighty sea walls will sink into the earth eighty-eight feet deeper than the caissons of the Brooklyn bridge. No such engineering feat has ever been done by man. The third great problem is the question of health. Smallpox and yellow fever have at times broken out at Panama; and this has given the public the impression that these dread pests are indigenous to the isthmus. But this is positively not the case.—Peter MacQueen in May National.

NO LIE.

(Chicago Tribune.)

"I don't think it is a nice thing to say of Mrs. Odgent that she got her husband at a bargain counter."
"Oh, but it's true. He was the young man that saved her life in a crash at a glove sale at Spoteash's one day."

CELEBRATION TO BE GIVEN BY THE K. OF P.

The Knights of Pythias of Metropolis, have decided to give an old time Fourth of July celebration at old Fort Massac this year. And from now on publicity of this celebration is to be given far and wide in all this section. It is quite possible that a big barbecue will be a feature of the event.

All the sister lodges of this section will be invited and another interesting feature will be the prize and exhibition drills given by the different companies of the Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias that day.

Prominent speakers will entertain the people in the exercises commemorative of the early struggles of those who defended historic Fort Massac and there will be plenty of good music to stir the patriotic spirit of the crowd. A K. of P. delegation from Paducah may attend.

SPRING AILMENTS.

There is an aching and tired feeling; the liver, bowels and kidneys become sluggish and inactive, the digestion impaired, with little or no appetite, no ambition for anything, and a feeling that the whole body and mind needs toning up. The trouble is that during winter there has been an accumulation of waste matter in the system. Herbine will remove it, secure to the secretions a right exit, and by its tonic effect fully restore the wasted tissues and give strength in place of weakness. 50c at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

INSURANCE BANQUET.

Messrs. Frank B. May and C. W. Collier were the hosts of a pleasant banquet on Friday evening at the Palmer house, to the visiting agents for Southwestern Kentucky of the National Life Insurance company of Vermont. Quite a number of guests were present and the occasion was most enjoyable. Messrs. May and Collier are the local agents of the company and also, general agents for Southwestern Kentucky.

FOR THOSE WHO LIVE ON FARMS.

Dr. Bergin, Pana, Ill., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment; always recommend it to my friends, as I am confident there is no better made. It is a dandy for burns." Those who live on farms are especially liable to many accidental cuts, burns and bruises, which heal rapidly when Ballard's Snow Liniment is applied. It should always be kept in the house for cases of emergency. 25c, 50c and $1 at DuBois, Kolb & Co.'s.

Mr. H. U. Wallace, chief engineer of the I. C. of Chicago, left yesterday noon for the south after having made a partial inspection of the Cairo extension of the road. He will probably return within a few days.

NEGRO GIVEN FIVE YEARS AT HICKMAN.

Hickman, Ky., May 16.—Vine Bryant, a negro, who shot and wounded Leslie Hackett, white, last fall, was given five years in the penitentiary here yesterday. Officers had to rush him from the court room to a wagon to save him from lynching. He was taken to a point on the N., C. and St. L., and thence to Eddyville.

BIG STEAMBOAT DEAL.

St. Paul, Minn., May 16.—The Diamond Jo steamer line has been sold to its president, J. Morton, for $298,000. The sale was consummated at Carthage, Ill., and the object of it was tooust the other stockholders in the company and to make Mr. Morton the sole owner. The change of ownership will necessitate an entire reorganization, but will not affect outsiders in the least. The line will continue to do business as before and under the same conditions.

WHEN KNIGHTHOOD
WAS IN FLOWER
 Or, The Love Story of Charles Brandon and Mary Tudor, the King's Sister, and Happening in the Reign of His August Majesty King Henry the Eighth Rewritten and Rendered into Modern English From Sir Edwin Caskoden's Memoir
 By EDWIN CASKODEN [CHARLES MAJOR]
 Copyright, 1898 and 1901, by the Doren-Merrill Company

I was on hand soon after the Tower gates had opened and was permitted to see Brandon at once. He read Mary's letter and acted like every other or lover since love letters first began.
 He was quick to note the absence of the loquacious but not expected assurance, and when he did not see it went straight to the point.

"She has promised to marry the French king to purchase my life. Is that not true?"
 "I hope not," I answered evasively.
 "I have seen very little of her, and she has said nothing about it."
 "You are evading my question, I see.
 Do you know nothing of it?"

"Nothing," I replied, telling an unnecessary lie.
 "Caskoden, you are either a liar or a blockhead."
 "Make it a lie, Brandon," said I, laughingly, for I was sure of my place in his heart and knew that he meant no offense.

I never doubt a friend. One would better be distrustful of ninety-nine friends who are false than doubtful of one who is true. Suspicion and superstitious-ness are at once the badge and the bane of a little soul.

I did not leave the Tower until noon, and Brandon's pardon had been delivered to him before I left. He was glad that the first news of it had come from Mary.

He naturally expected his liberty at once, and when told that he was to be honorably detained for a short time turned to me and said: "I suppose they are afraid to let me out until she is off for France. King Henry flatters me."

"I looked out of the window up Tower street and said nothing."
 When I left, I took a letter to Mary, which plainly told her he had divined it all, and she wrote a tear stained answer, begging him to forgive her for having saved his life at a cost greater than her own.

For several days I was kept busy carrying letters from Greenwich to the Tower and back again, but soon letters ceased to satisfy Mary, and she made up her mind that she must see him.
 Nothing else would do. She must not could not and, in short, would not go another day without seeing him—no, not another hour. Jane and I opposed her all we could, but the best we could accomplish was to induce her for Brandon's sake—for she was beginning to see that he was the one who had to suffer for her indiscretions—to ask Henry's permission, and if he refused, then try some other way. To determine was to act with Mary, so off she went without delay to hunt the king, taking Jane and me along as escort.
 How full we were of important business as we hurried along the corridors, one on each side of Mary, all talking excitedly at once! When anything was to be done, it always required three of us to do it.

We found the king, and without any prelude Mary proffered her request.
 Of course it was refused. Mary pouted and was getting ready for an outburst when Wolsey spoke up: "With your majesty's gracious permission, I would subscribe to the petition of the princess. She has been good enough to give her promise in the matter of so much importance to us, and in so small a thing as this I hope you may see your way clear toward favoring her.
 The interview will be the last and may help to make her duty easier." Mary gave the cardinal a fleeting glance from her lustrous eyes full of surprise and gratitude and as speaking as a book.

Henry looked from one to the other of us for a moment and broke into a boisterous laugh.
 "Oh, I don't care, so that you keep it a secret. The old king will never know. We can hurry up the marriage.
 He is getting too much already—400, 000 crowns and a girl like you. He cannot complain if he have an heir. It would be a good joke on the miserly old dotard, but better on 'Ce Gros Garcon.'"

Mary sprang from her chair with a cry of rage. "You brutal! Do you think I am as vile as you because I have the misfortune to be your sister, or that Charles Brandon is like you simply because he is a man?" Henry laughed, his health at that time being too good for him to be ill natured. He had all he wanted out of his sister, so her outburst amused him.

Mary hurriedly left the king and walked back to her room, filled with shame and rage, feelings actively stimulated by Jane, who was equally indignant.

Henry had noticed Jane's frown, but had laughed at her and had tried to catch and kiss her as she left, but she struggled away from him and fled with a speed worthy of the cause.

This insulting suggestion put a stop to Mary's visit to the Tower more effectually than any refusal could have done, and she sat down to pour forth her son's indignation in a letter.

She remained at home then, but saw Brandon later, and to good purpose, as I believe, although I am not sure about it even to this day.

I took this letter to Brandon along with Mary's miniature—the one that had been painted for Charles of Germany, but had never been given—and a curl of her hair, and it looked as if this was all he would ever possess of her.

 De Longueville heard of Henry's brutal consent that Mary might see Brandon, and, with a Frenchman's hellief in woman's depravity, was exceedingly anxious to keep them apart. To this end he requested that a member of his own retinue be placed near Brandon. To this Henry readily consented, and there was an end to even the letter writing. Opportunities increase in value doubly fast as they drift behind us, and now that the princess could not see Brandon or even write to him she regretted with her whole soul that she had not gone to the Tower when she had permission, regardless of what any one would say or think.

Mary was impatient and impatient by nature, but upon rare and urgent occasions could employ the very utmost sort of finesse.

Henry's brutal selfishness in forcing upon her the French marriage, together with his cruel condemnation of Brandon and his vile insinuations against herself, had driven nearly every spark of affection for her brother from her heart. But she felt that she might feel an affection she did not feel, and that what she so wanted would be cheap at the price. Cheap? It would be cheap at the cost of her immortal soul. Cheap? What she wanted was life's condensed sweets—the man she loved—and what she wanted to escape was life's distilled bitterness—marriage with a man she loathed. None but a pure woman can know the torture of that. I saw this whole disastrous campaign from start to finish. Mary began with a wide flank movement conducted under masked batteries and skillfully executed. She alighted over her troubles and cried a great deal, but told the king he had been such a dear, kind brother to her that she would gladly do anything to please him and advance his interests. She said it would be torture to live with that old creature, King Louis, but she would do it willingly to help her handsome brother, no matter how much she might suffer.

The king laughed and said: "Poor old Louis! What about him? What about his suffering? He thinks he is making such a fine bargain, but the Lord pity him when he has my little sister in his side for a thorn. He had better employ some energetic soul to prick him with needles and bodkins, for I think there is more power for disturbance in this little body than in any other equal amount of space in all the universe. You will furnish him all the trouble he wants, won't you, sister?"

"I shall try," said the princess de-murely, perfectly willing to obey in everything.
 "Devil a doubt of that, and you will succeed, too, or my crown's a stew pan." And he laughed at the huge joke he was about to perpetrate on his poor old royal brother.

It would seem that the tremendous dose of flattery administered by Mary would have been so plainly self interested as to alarm the dullest perception, but Henry's vanity was so dense and his appetite for flattery so great that he accepted it all without suspicion, and it made him quite affable and gracious.

Mary kept up her show of affection and docile obedience for a week or two until she thought Henry's suspicions were allayed, and then, after having done enough petting and fondling, as she thought, to start the earth itself a-moving—no some men are foolish enough to say it really does—she began the attack direct by putting her arms about the king's neck and piteously begging him not to sacrifice her whole life by sending her to France.

Her pathetic, soul charged appeal might have softened the heart of Calig-ula himself, but Henry was not even cruel. He was simply an animal so absorbed in himself that he could not feel for others.

"Oh, it is out at last!" he said with a laugh. "I thought all this sweetness must have been for something. So the lady wants her Brandon and doesn't want her Louis, yet is willing to obey her dear, kind brother? Well, we'll take her at her word and let her obey.
 You may as well understand, once and for all, that you are to go to France.
 You promised to go decently if I would not cut off that fellow's head, and now I tell you that if I hear another whimper from you off it comes, and you will go to France too."

This brought Mary to terms quickly enough. It touched her one vulnerable spot—her love.
 "I will go; I promise it again. You shall never hear another word that unhappy shall come to him—to him." And she put her hands over her face to conceal her tears as she softly wept.

"The day you sail for France Brandon shall go free and shall again have his old post at court. I like the fellow as a good companion, and really believe you are more to blame than he."
 "I am all to blame, and am ready this day to pay the penalty. I am at your disposal to go when and where you choose," answered Mary most pathetically.

Poor, fair Prosperus, with no kind mother Demeter to help her. The ground will soon open, and Pluto will have his bride.

"Lightness of a 'Dorothy Dodd'"

On the Scales

A great many interesting facts may be discovered with a pair of scales, but it is doubtful if any single fact will be more interesting and valuable to the average woman than the weight of her shoes.

For this tells her the number of ounces that must be lifted thousands of times each day, and a little calculation will show that she lifts tons of shoe leather a day—no small labor in itself.

The "Dorothy Dodd" shoe saves the lifting of more than one and one-half tons every day. A pair of "Dorothy Dodd" shoes are several ounces lighter than ordinary shoes. The feet are just so much more comfortable, and you are so much less tired. Put a pair to the test!

Shoes $3.00

Oxfords $2.50

PALE ALE AND KY-LA

AGAIN DECLARED NON-INTOXICATING BY THE COURT.

A case of much interest was tried before Circuit Judge R. E. Mahlen of Dresden, Tenn., in which W. D. Frazier of Martin, Tenn., was charged with selling Laevison's Kylo and Pale Ale, which were claimed to be intoxicating; but after testing these drinks and hearing the evidence of a number of witnesses, and the proof showing them to be non-intoxicating, the jury dismissed the case, deciding that it was not a violation of the local option law to sell these beverages.

The decision is of much importance to A. M. Laevison & Co. of this city and their many customers in this state and Tennessee.

Miss Gertrude Atkins of Princeton returned home at noon today after a visit to Miss Mary Lou Byrd.
